A packed year ahead

Welcome to the second issue of SNAP Matters. And thank you to everyone - families, volunteers, supporters and anyone working with us or interested in our work - for your positive reaction to issue 1!

On page 6 you can find dates for some of our exciting training courses and events we have planned for 2018. They include sessions on Communication, Mental Capacity and the Care Act, Resilience and Eating.

One other important date to note is May 25th, which is the day when the new General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) comes into being. This is a new data protection law which means we will no longer be able to contact you - without your consent - with the latest supporter news, events, inspiring stories and updates on our work. The usual information about services will continue to be circulated.

On the following pages we take a look at some of the various ways in which you can support the charity including our very own SNAP Nuclear Race!

We also talk to one family and hear their story. They are just one of 4,689 families we’ve helped since we started in 1994 and stories like theirs inspire us to continue with our work. Whether you’re new to SNAP or a long term family or volunteer, there’s something for everyone!

Best wishes,
Karen and Christina

Social Stories™ Workshop
SNAP was delighted to welcome back Dr Siobhan Timmins to The SNAP Centre for a full day training with some of our parents on how to engage and write Social Stories™ for their children. This is an acknowledged way of teaching social understanding to children with autism. The workshop helped parents to understand how to put together a cohesive set of stories that will help their children understand more complex issues in an understandable way that they can relate to. Dr Siobhan Timmins has more than 20 years expertise in this area and SNAP looks forward to being able to offer more presentations like this - see page 6 for more of SNAP’s calendar of training for 2018.

The Great British Bake-Off came to The SNAP Centre at the end of last year as we held our annual Coffee, Cake and Catch-up event for families, friends and supporters and even recent GBBO contestant, James Hillery, was in attendance.

Mayor of Brentwood, Will Russell, was particularly impressed with the sensory room when he popped in: “The work they do here is incredible and an important support to families.”

The icing on the cake was raising £1,727! Thank you everyone who supported SNAP.

The weather proved to be unkind with a downpour of rain but this didn’t dampen the spirits of our golfers with the day and evening dinner, auction and raffle held raising a tee-rific £6,204 in total. SNAP’s Events and Marketing Officer, Michelle Andrews, was delighted: “SNAP’s Golf Day has a great sporting spirit and this was reflected in the amount raised.”

SNAP’s next Golf Day is 28th September - register your interest by emailing events@snapcharity.org
Being welcomed into the SNAP family has changed our lives

Being a SNAP family changes lives for the better. Just ask Jane Franklyn, whose family is one of 4,689 who have been supported since 1994. Here, in her own words, Jane talks about her personal family journey.

“I honestly don’t know what we would have done without SNAP!” says Jane, who first contacted us four years ago.

“I initially heard about SNAP through several friends of friends and family members. It took me a while to pluck up courage to make contact. I’ll never forget that friendly upbeat phonecall that made me feel immediately at ease.”

“I attended a pre-school session at SNAP on a Monday bringing my son Charlie, who is autistic, along for his first visit to ‘see the ladies’ as it then became known in our house. I was relieved, upset, happy and overwhelmed all in one go. For the first time in Charlie’s life we felt welcomed and at home at a pre-school group. For the first time my little boy, who was almost three-years-old, could be himself.”

Jane remains committed to working with SNAP to help Charlie.

“I want to take away his desperate desire to make himself heard when he isn’t always able to and most of all I want to take away other people’s ignorance,” she says.

Jane and Charlie - now seven - have enjoyed Therapeutic Thursdays and holiday sessions as well as more Pre-school sessions. Jane has also accessed a variety of informative parent training, and been supported by a million (!) phonecalls and conversations.

“One of the lovely volunteers, Joan, remembered years after working with Charlie that his favourite snack is cucumber - he always has one close to hand! Very special people work and volunteer for SNAP and it has honestly changed our lives.”

“Charlie and I attended very regularly in the early years and I very much relied on SNAP for advice, support, and a shoulder to cry on. We then welcomed Dan - my now hubby - into our family and he immediately became part of SNAP, very much believing in everything they stand for.

“We now have a baby daughter, Sofia, and it turns out she will also require the support of SNAP growing up too. The difference in receiving her diagnosis, knowing we would have the support of our friends here, has made a whole world of difference.”

Jane says its the smallest things that can make such a big difference to parents and children.

“One of the lovely volunteers, Joan, remembered years after working with Charlie that his favourite snack is cucumber - he always has one close to hand! Very special people work and volunteer for SNAP and it has honestly changed our lives being welcomed into the SNAP family.

“We have laughed, cried and shared so many memories with SNAP over the years. Believe me we are so lucky to have this resource local to us in Brentwood. There are very few organisations like it across the UK and others living outside our borough really would love to have this resource available.

“I now run an online support group for parents of children with special needs and I am told first hand that without SNAP so many families would be drowning with the pressure, responsibility and day-to-day needs of being a special parent. There are many others across the UK not as lucky as us that would give anything to have this invaluable support on their doorstep.

“I am now a proud Ambassador for the charity, and Dan has run several 10K races in aid of SNAP; he has now won a place in the VirginMoney London Marathon for 2018 raising further funds to support other families.”

Who’s talking about SNAP on social media?

Lisa I really don’t know what we would have done without SNAP. This is not only a special place of comfort and sanctuary, but a workshop providing the crucial tools to empower parents for the benefit of their more vulnerable children. They make the difference between sinking fast or swimming strongly. I can only do the latter because of them!!! Humongous thanks SNAP team.

Take on a challenge

A new year beckons and so does the opportunity to take on new challenges and, at the same time, raise money for your favourite charity. Whether it’s a sponsored walk, cycle ride, getting muddy or any other activity now’s the time to act!

#lovemud

Mud, mud, glorious mud, there’s nothing quite like it...

That was certainly the verdict from a team of SNAP supporters who tackled the Brentwood-based Nuclear Races ‘Nuclear Fallout’ race, the toughest and muddiest event in their calendar. We talked to one member of the team about the challenge.

“For years I have to admit I have always steered clear of these races for some reason,” jokes Paul Hurworth. “But once you have visited the SNAP Centre and start talking to friends and family you realise how much they are doing in the community to support families, a fair few of which I know personally. When a friend suggested doing the race, I was straight in!”

“We got a team together full of our mates from our business networking group - EBN Hornchurch - and training got underway. Well a variety of different levels of training, some were avid visitors to the gym, and for myself, I never quite made it there!”

And the challenge proved to be mud-nificent.

“I was a little apprehensive on the morning of the event because of how cold it was, it was the first week of November. It wasn’t too bad apart from the freezing cold water at the bottom of the deathslide. And you get more muddy than you can believe, but then you are never too far from some water to wash it off.

“Being in it as a team was such a high point, we all encouraged each other to the max, and we stayed together from the start until the end helping each other over every obstacle.

And Paul would definitely encourage others.

“This was definately a challenge, but was a satisfying day raising money for such an amazing organisation doing lots of work to ease the lives of families, even ones very close to you that you may not have expected.”

#lovecycling

SNAP is £3,000 better off thanks to the unusual cycling antics of a team from the Round Table.

Members of the Great Dunmow Round Table cycled 120 miles on a six man tandem to Loughborough to raise money for SNAP.

The bike, first built in 1976, has been used by various Round Table groups to raise more than £500,000 in the course of its lifetime.

It has also been used in TV advertisements and appeared on Blue Peter and in an episode of the hit comedy Birds Of A Feather.

The latest charity jaunt ended with the Great Dunmow team – supported by other local Round Tables – taking part in the organisation’s national sporting weekend.

The cyclists left Essex at 6am and arrived in Loughborough at 5pm – receiving great support from the public along the way – in time for the sporting weekend opening ceremony. They then topped their memorable day by winning the tournament.

Steve Eccles, chairman of Great Dunmow Round Table, said: “The ride was extremely challenging but we all had an absolute blast, hopefully the money raised will go some way to helping SNAP to continue their fantastic work in supporting Essex families.”

Charity of the Year champs

Regional law firm Pinney Talfourd Solicitors chose SNAP as their Charity Of The Year (COTY) for 2017/2018 and have raised thousands of pounds as well as building on their profile in the local community; corporate support really is a win-win for all involved!

Corporate support for charities like SNAP has a positive impact for all involved.
Not only does it raise much needed funds, it also gives employees at companies an added sense of togetherness and commitment to their local community.
Just ask the team at Pinney Talfourd who chose SNAP as their Charity of the Year and have found the experience nothing but positive.
Even before their year of fundraising got underway, staff found themselves volunteering at a local village fayre at the SNAP games stall and taking part in a chariot bath race!

Their fundraising story launched fully when the Upminster branch opened its doors for a day of story-telling and arts and crafts for an audience of eager children.
More recently members of the team have entered a team into Birketts Race4Business and the Great Newham Run, organised a Christmas concert in conjunction with Queens’ Theatre Hornchurch and have taken on an epic challenge as they embarked on a 24-hour Danceathon. Family Solicitors Catherine Loadman, Sue Nash and Lucy Birch were joined by a host of colleagues, clients, family and friends to take on the challenge!
Twenty-two hours into their challenge the ladies powered through an hour-long Zumba lesson. And finally at noon they celebrated a full 24 hours of non-stop dancing, raising an incredible £5,000.
Partner at Pinney Talfourd, Catherine Loadman, is delighted with their achievements to date: “Pinney Talfourd have thoroughly enjoyed fundraising for SNAP. We have raised more than £6,000 and still have a few more months to go. It is a pleasure to work with such a well deserving charity.”

If your business would like to partner with SNAP and reach new audiences, motivate employees and demonstrate social responsibility please call the fundraising team on 01277 245345 or email fundraising@snapcharity.org
